While local producers say the imports will shrink revenue and result in job losses, the importers accuse local producers of using high levels of salt, water and more additives to make their chickens taste better.

DRUM News

Evodia Motsepe has imported chicken from local chicken producers who claim the US imports are not suitable for human consumption.

In a media briefing, Minister of Health Dr Aaron Motsoaledi echoed Evodia's words. He said fears that the US chicken was carrying salmonella (a bacteria that causes food poisoning) are misplaced, as all chickens have bacteria, and that the Department of Health is going to ensure that the risk of highly pathogenic avian influenza infecting SA poultry is minimized.
